

ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT

soresma

We make your job easier.

You are the expert in your field of work, we the expert in ours: the environment. Depending on the nature of your activity, the authorities impose a lot of environmental standards, regulations and procedures on you. The legislation is demanding and will be even stricter in the near future. Waiting may be risky for you and your surroundings. To judge to what extent you fulfil the current regulations and to anticipate future developments, you can call on Soresma's environmental specialists. As a highly trained team, we offer complete administrative, technical and legal support for everything pertaining to the environment.

Quality through experience

We have hundreds of satisfied clients thanks to:

- Our eye for detail.
- Our ear for problems.
- Our practical but sound approach.

In recent years, we have completed hundreds of assignments to the satisfaction of our clients. Soresma has followed the development of the environmental legislation closely over the past decades and has gained the trust of several governments. We have the necessary recognition and the correct diplomas and we hold the ISO 9001 certificate.

Some of our activities include:

- Acting as external environmental coordinator or support of the internal environmental coordinator
- Performing complete environmental audits resulting in a clear report with concrete recommendations.
- Compiling and supervising environmental permits requests, deviation requests and appeals
- Organising information sessions on environmental legislation relevant to your company.
- Compiling annual environmental reports, statements and declarations.
- Compiling databases with environmental legislation relevant to your company.
- Energy studies.
- Periodic inspection of storage tanks for hazardous products.
- Consultancy services as an recognised environmental expert on closing down storage tanks.

Soresma: Environment from A to Z.

There are many consultancy bureaus to choose from. If you compare prices, the initial differences may be small. The value of an offer lies in the knowledge and capacity which the consultancy offers you. Frequently, external factors (for example observation of unexpected soil contamination or measures taken by governmental services) complicate a simple situation, requiring relevant, specialised expertise. That is when you realise that Soresma is the right partner.

Our clients.

Drawing up a permit request or carrying out an audit can lead to long-term cooperation. The Soresma environmental consultancy department has a long-standing relationship with three hundred multinational, large, medium-sized, and self-employed entrepreneurial organisations. Our clients operate in several sectors, including: storage and distribution of petroleum products, petrol stations, transport, harbour, food and metal processing industries.

We look past the regional borders: we do not only work for clients in Flanders but also for firms in the Brussels and Walloon regions, where specific legislation and procedures must be taken into account.

We prove ourselves every day by thinking practically, acting creatively and properly and delivering professional work.
